LATE SUMMER, EARLY FALL: A Simple Tale About Forbidden Friendship

Impractive Mood. The present study aims to address this issue by developing a meta-analytic approach for HC, and applying it to the functional dataset of BrainMap, which is an online database that currently includes neuroimaging experimental results from more than studies, organized in a multidimensional keywords system of meta-data 9596Although meta-analytical studies, such as MACM or activation likelihood estimation ALE 979899, extensively use this keyword system in order to focus on a particular research domain, we took into consideration the entire normal-mapping activation database, as Toro and colleagues did Of note, Smith and associates carried out an independent component analysis on the same entire database, obtaining a set of components similar to the canonical resting state networks, thus confirming the correspondence between task-based co-activations and connectivity These similarities allow us to propose a method in which brain HC is emulated by homotopic co-activation.
